I found one mod called 'Somebody's Calling' that seems really good, but the author said it was up to date, but the creator's name was redacted. Is there any other female heads mods that you guys can recommend? Also, can you recommend any good tutorials for creating your own head replacers?The invention relates to a process for producing a block copolymer, particularly a block copolymer consisting of butadiene and styrene, by polymerization of a monomer mixture with a specific catalyst system in a reaction zone, and subsequent solidification of the polymer particles formed in the reaction zone and removal of at least some of the catalyst system. Block copolymers of butadiene and styrene have been known for some time. They have proved to be of special significance for the manufacture of shaped articles such as films, fibers and molded bodies. This is due to the particular elastic properties of the polymer, combined with a high melting point. The block copolymers have been produced in the prior art by polymerization in emulsion or microemulsion using various polymerization catalysts. Emulsifiers are introduced in order to stabilize the reaction. After the polymerization the solvent (oil) is separated from the polymer by distillation, causing further polymer to precipitate out, thus leading to a lower polymer yield. Subsequently the polymer is to be dried, normally in rotary dryers, which lead to high energy consumption. The polymer, which has been cooled by the rotary dryers, is subsequently baled in a bale press, which is also an energy intensive process. The object of the present invention is to provide a process for producing block copolymers which is simpler, more economical and more energy-efficient than the processes known in the prior art.Davydenko wins Australian open Russian star Denis Davydenko notched up an impressive win at the Australian Open today by beating American Mardy Fish in the final. Davydenko, the number one-ranked men's player, fought back from 4-1 down in the second set to take the match to a deciding set. The 26-year-old, who defeated Djokovic in the French Open semi-finals, then avenged his defeat in that competition with a big win in the final. The match went to a deciding set with Davydenko then advancing to the title game with an emphatic 6-3 6-0 win. 82157476af
